

GALE WORLD MAP

THE GLOBAL ALLIANCE
FOR LGBT EDUCATION

This assessment is based on 340 responses on the GALE checklist from 110 countries, during 2012-2015. From countries typified as unknown responses still have to be recruited.

The GALE checklist is based on the general consensus of states on the right to education as codified in major conventions

Does the state secure that:

The position of DESPOGI students in schools

1. DESPOGI students have full access to educational institutions
2. DESPOGI students have freedom of selfexpression in school
3. DESPOGI students are protected against bullying and harassment
4. DESPOGI students are supported to prevent drop-out
5. DESPOGI students are supported to have an equal level of academic performance

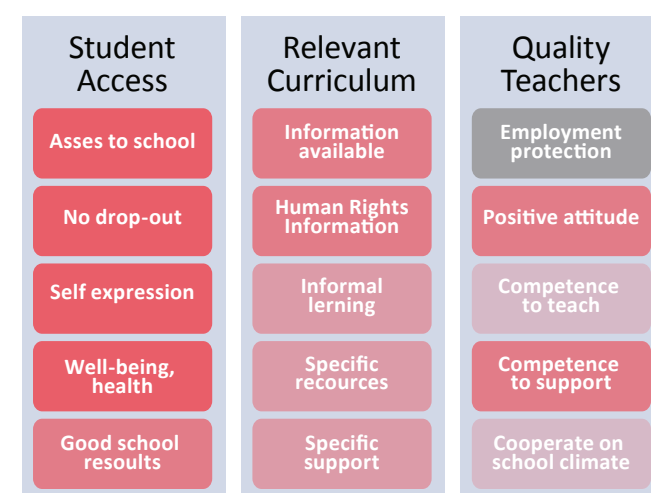

The availability of supportive curricula

6. Public information about sexual diversity is supported
7. There is supportive and relevant attention for DESPOGI students in school resources
8. There are specific resources for DESPOGI students
9. There are support services for DESPOGI students available
10. DESPOGI students have informal peer-learning opportunities

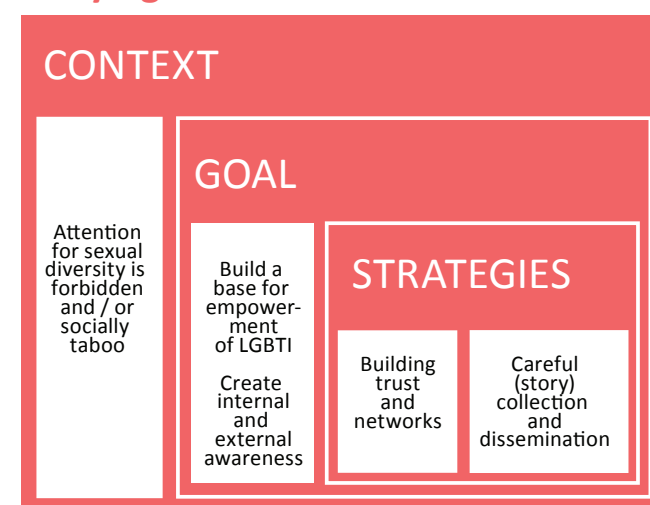

The availability of high quality school staff

11. Teachers and other staff are supportive of human rights for DESPOGI students and staff
12. School staff has adequate competences to teach about sexual diversity
13. School staff has adequate competences to support DESPOGI students
14. The school environment is supportive for sexual diversity
15. There is employment protection for DESPOGI staff

Three key areas of the right to education

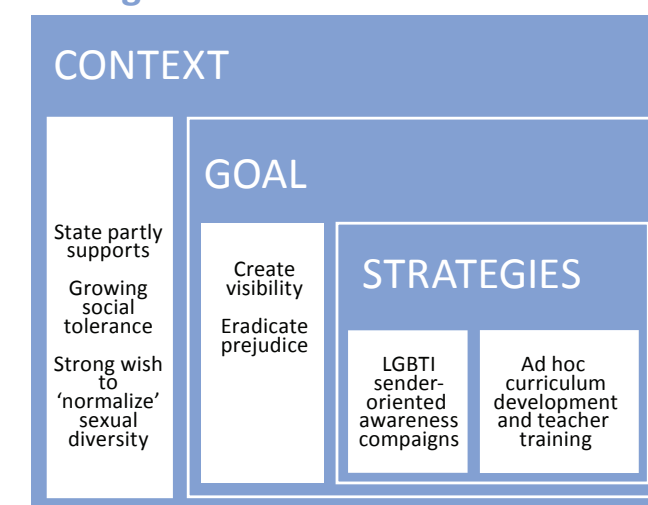

Denying States

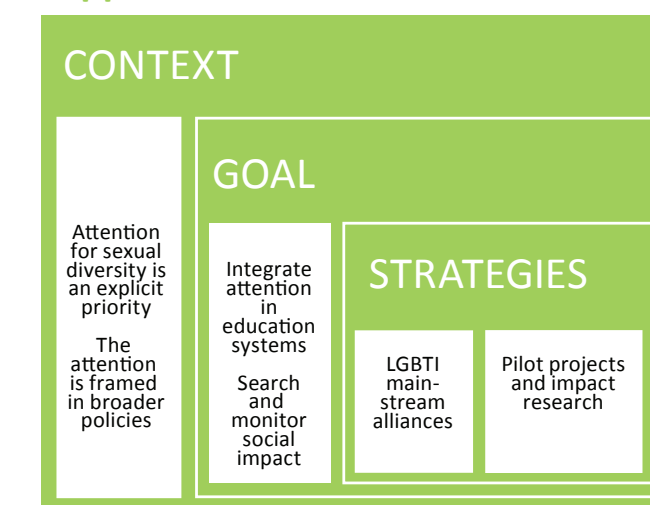

What we see in Denying, Ambiguous and Supportive States

Ambiguous States

Supportive States

The colors in this diagram refer to the extent to which the checkpoints are monitored by international convention procedures. A darker color represents better monitored checkpoints. "Employment protection" is colored grey because it is formally not part of the right to education.

More information about the mapping of the right to education and what you can do as an activist, a professional in the education sector or a government official: visit GALE.info or mail info@lgbt-education.info